Obviously its nowhere near the same - but it could go out of hand and there could be a split (people leaving or bans) all of which would be just as stupid as the respect/respect renewal saga!

so come on lets sort it out - maybe someone could dress up in a stupid out fit and do a robotic dance ala Galloway to get everyone in the mood for reconciliation...any volunteers?

Ok if the awards are to be free and fair they need to be impartial. At one point silky suggested that next year he intends to ensure that only people that are 'proud' to have won the awards, win the awards. The idea was that he will ensure some artists are given the time and heads up to hit their friends and family, to help make sure some people won. When I started to hear this i wanted to have control back at which time it was too late.

I'm so going to get banned now but the truth is out.

Do you mean the idea was to rig the awards next year?

How do you determine who are 'proud' to win awards? Are these the artists or galleries that are willing to offer free artwork to the awards organisers to prove how proud they are?

Could this just be a misunderstanding that has snowballed? If there is a chance that it could be the case, then try not to jump to conclusions, as it can make matters worse. This is a very sad and troubling situation but sometimes things aren't what they seem. Hopefully this will be one of those occasions.

Ahh look i really dont want any bad vibes on this place, if anyone knows me i'm usually on the person trying to keep everyone smiling. Sometimes in life the truth needs to be said though, I'm not someone that stands up for myself much, always prefer people to get on. But sometimes you need to say the truth and take the consequences of saying it.

However anymore could be seen as bullying, I know silky isn't well at the best of times and I shan't go on any further, i just hope you now understand why i've been prepared to allow a very good thing end in such an embarrassing manner and hope you will understand if I do feel the need to take the party elsewhere. Anyhow, look on the bright side, you'll get two piss ups instead of one. 😊

Maybe it's a good idea to wait to hear from Silky before bagging on him. Not saying who's wrong or right but the guy did say he was taking a break for a bit. I think he deserves that at least.

I'd just like to say it would be nice to have this solved in an adult fashion with no bans - thanks

Great point Carlito. I hope this can be hashed through without a big falling out, or bans, or deleted threads/comments. I am not having a go at anyone in particular, but it seems there have been some valuable members that aren't around anymore either because they were asked to no longer participate, or they left on their own fruition. 😊

It is a sad to see how the quality of many of the posts have dwindled and that prices and flipping topics are beginning to overshadow the informative and passion sharing comments that stand as the cornerstone of any good forum. In depth art discussions, knowledgeable people, and a good friendly atmosphere made me want to join in the first place and I wish we could figure out how to get back to that without having personality conflicts interfere. With such a diverse group of guys here, how is it possible things have come to the point members whom everyone appreciates and respects (regardless of some + or- sign near their name) are so dismayed they want to pack up and leave? Perhaps a group of mods and some tactful members can work out having scheduled skype conferences could help in resolving some of the issues that have come up as of late in a semi-private fashion. This forum is getting larger by the day, and it may be helpful to address things in this fashion to assure it continues down the right path. Surely involved and sensibly contributing members can rationally discuss things without having a big row.

Getting sick of all the st floating around here lately. Lets pull this thing together. Supposed to be a forum for street art and associated works, NOT politics and all that crap. Silky, you've done a remarkable job with the forums and FPR your work on the awards was superb. Gentlemen respect to you both but lets get this pile of st sorted.

This is all just silly 😊 this whole thing is being stirred up from nothing 😊

Mark, I made the "Awards Organizer" account especially for you so you could make the polls in a private staff only board of the forum 😊 From what I gather you don't want to have the awards on this site next year, so you don't need your account set as forum staff anymore coz all the voting threads are open to normal members now 😊 I have changed you account back for you now! if that makes you feel better? 😊
